I Found a Document, Now What?

Presented by Diane Giannini and Jennifer Dondero
Saturday, November 21st, 2009 10a.m.-Noon
Springfield, Virginia

Clueless? You've found a document but have you milked it for every clue? This workshop will give you hands-on experience with a variety of real documents. You'll practice your skills and receive immediate feedback! If you normally research using a laptop you may bring it but plan to use battery power. – This workshop is designed for beginners (with research experience) through intermediate researchers.

This year's workshop will be held in a different location and details are still being finalized. You will receive the exact address and directions with your e-mailed confirmation. Please make sure your e-mail address is legible. If we are unable to contact you, you will be placed on the waiting list until we receive usable contact information. If you do NOT have e-mail, please make sure to provide both your phone # and mailing address. We will mail driving directions to those without e-mail.

There is a fee of $20 for each participant. Due to space limitations, we must cap registration at 20 participants. A waiting list will be created once the class reaches 20 people. You will be notified no later than Friday, November 20th if you have been moved from the waiting list and received a space in the class. Full refunds are available if you cancel by the General Meeting on November 19th, no refunds after that date.

If you have questions please e-mail Jennifer at fxgs@jpgenealogy.com.
